

Your Guide to Prepare for Stomach Cancer Treatment in Turkey

Documents and Visa Requirements

- A valid passport and possibly a visa depending on your country of origin.
- Check visa requirements for Turkey at Turkey's Electronic Visa Application System.
- Necessary medical documents include medical history, diagnosis, treatment records, and imaging results.
- Clinics in Turkey offer diagnostics and tests like biopsies and CT scans in case of missing documents.

Accommodation Options

While some clinics may offer accommodation, it's not always included. Patients can stay at partner hotels with discounts or self-book. Hospital stays last 2-3 days, and post-treatment, 7 days in a hotel is common. Accommodation for an accompanying person is typically available. Average hotel prices per night range from $50 to $200.

Transfer Services

- Many clinics offer free airport transfers, while others may charge a fee.
- Popular taxi services include BiTaksi and iTaksi, with approximate prices starting from 100 TRY ($5.50 USD).

Interpreter Services

Interpreter services are available, with some clinics providing this service for free, while others may charge additional fees.

Payment Methods

- Payments can be made via cash or card.
- The local currency is the Turkish Lira (TRY), but having local cash is not always necessary as many places accept dollars or euros.

Before Your Stomach Cancer Treatment

- Ensure all travel documents and medical records are up-to-date and readily available.
- Consult with your local doctor to discuss your travel and treatment plans.
- Inform your insurance company about your medical travel to Turkey.
- Prepare a list of medications and allergies to share with your medical team in Turkey.
- Plan for recovery time and necessary accommodations post-treatment.
- Adhere to any preoperative instructions given by your treatment center.
- Arrange for someone to assist you during your recovery period.
- Consider downloading translation apps or learning basic Turkish phrases.
